New AAPS Advances Book Series Editor Announced

We are pleased to announce Xiang-Qun (Sean) Xie, Ph.D., EMBA, as the new Editor-in-Chief of AAPS' Advances in the Pharmaceutical Sciences book series, published in partnership with Springer Nature.

Dr. Xie is a tenured Professor at the University of Pittsburgh School of Pharmacy and a PD/PI pioneering AI-driven pharmaceutical sciences since 2006. This includes founding the NIH NIDA CDAR Center of Excellence, a landmark collaboration with Carnegie Mellon in 2014 to advance AI and data science in drug research.

He also launched the nation's first Pharmacometrics & Systems Pharmacology (PSP) program to train future innovators in PharmacoAnalytics. With over 250 publications and multiple patents in high-impact journals, his work on AI-driven drug design has led to the FDA IND approval of a first-in-class clinical candidate.
